

What Are Teachers and Administrators Saying about The GEEL?

Educators all over the country are benefiting from the Galanter Educational Evaluation Lattice (The GEEL). Their experiences and school settings are different. Their responsibilities vary their perspectives. But they all agree that getting an individualized understanding of a child's learning is the key to improving performance. And that The GEEL gives them that understanding.

Benefit: Individualized Instruction Aids a Child's Learning and Progress

There are so many things in the GEEL that other assessments like DIBELS just doesn't cover. --
Stacy F., reading specialist

*There is individualized instruction that the child will enjoy doing and may look forward to doing their work afterwards. —Lina D., teacher

*It's a good use of the internet in the classroom because it allows each child to realize that he or she can learn regardless of his or her learning capabilities. —Barbara L., teacher

Benefit: Early Detection of Potential Physiological Impediments to Learning

*The physiological aspect of this online evaluation will be an amazing help with diagnosing learning problems and giving resources to teachers and parents. —Elizabeth R., teacher

*This is directed learning and does things that I cannot do, like providing visual test data and referrals to specialists, etc. —Joy B., teacher

Benefit: Valuable Supplemental Report to Parents

*Demonstratively, this will be an enormous help as a report with recommendations to parents. —Brother Tom W., teacher

Benefit: Maximizing Effective Use of Technology in School

The individual student narrative will be useful when working with the Education Assistance teams...it will clearly illustrate the student's strengths and weaknesses. Students will feel empowered being able to complete all the tasks on the computer by themselves...it will be great for their self esteem.

*Because it is cross-curriculum, it will support teachers in presenting their observations of a student and will also help the teacher locate a problem area immediately. —Nicole H., teacher

*Having this powerful diagnostic technology and the insights it will reveal about each student's progress in early grades will ultimately impact and help improve student's progress and performance as they move from grade to grade. —Maureen F., Director of Technology

Benefit: Valuable Supplemental report Assists Guidance Counselors

As a guidance counselor, I am constantly faced with transfer students whom I have no history of. CPI's evaluation, and the individualized Narrative Report it churns out on a real-time basis, will be an enormous help to me in understanding precisely what students know and how much they know. That way, I have an objective benchmark that supplements my own insights... I can have the student take a quick and easy online evaluation at the beginning and end of the semester, or anytime in between that I need!
